Lofty Destinations

There's nothing like enjoying the summer breeze and the view from a rooftop bar. And several of Rhode Island's favorite spots have great new reasons to stop by.

WATERSIDE VIEW

Chair 5 at the Break

1208 Ocean Rd., Narragansett, 363-9820,
dinechair5.com

It's tough to find a better view to savor a Chai-tini in the Ocean State than Chair 5's direct sightline to the water. Decorated in light blues and breezy beiges, the rooftop bar pays tribute to Narragansett's beach town status in everything from the name (for a lifeguard chair at the town beach) to the New England and Asian-influenced menu.

REINVIGORATED CLASSIC

Top of Newport at the Hotel Viking

1 Bellevue Ave., Newport, 847-3300,
hotelviking.com

The Hotel Viking has been a Newport institution for ninety years, and its rooftop bar, the Top of Newport, has long been a favorite among locals and tourists alike. You can watch the sun set over the City by the Sea's historic rooftops and partake of nightly specials ranging from old-school Spirits and Stogies night on Wednesday, where you can indulge in a three-course tasting menu, plus cigars and whiskey samples for $47, to newer additions like Thursday's Tacos, Tapas and Tequila, which features a new margarita each week.

DANCE PARTY VIBE

Rooftop at the ProvidenceG

100 Dorrance St., Providence, 632-4904,
rooftopattheg.com

Providence's only rooftop restaurant and lounge has changed up its decor and menu for the warm weather, with new local dishes ranging from "chowda pizza" to grilled sea bass and new summer cocktails. The panoramic view of some of Providence's most historic buildings can't be beat, and you can bring a group of friends for the dance nights and Sunday Funday, when the music's a mix of the South of France and South Beach.
